of the instrument to intimidate prisoners is the invention of a police inspect-or at Odessa. A man was one day with having committed a serious robbery. The inspector had some difficulty in proving the case, and had recourse to an ingenious stratagem. He went to the telephone in an adjoining room, and asked the clerk at the central office to speak into the instrument the following words, in a solemn tone. "Istno Smeilanski, you must confess the robbery, if you don't you are sure to be sentenced, and your punishment will be all the more severe." He then sent for the prisoner and questioned him again, threatening to appeal to the machine to get the truth. The thief burst into a laugh, but the inspector held the telephone to his ear, and gave the preconcerted signal. The result was as expected. The rogue, terrified by the warming uttered by the uncanny "machine." at once made a clean breast of it.—Harper's Young People. brought into the police station, charged
